After The Blast: An Australian Officer In Iraq And Afghanistan

Synopsis

A very Australian story of heroism and healing. In 2004 Garth Callender, a junior cavalry officer, was deployed to Iraq. He quickly found his feet leading convoys of armoured vehicles through the streets of Baghdad and into the desert beyond. But one morning his crew was targeted in a roadside bomb attack. Garth became Australia's first serious casualty in the war. After recovering from his injuries, Garth returned to Iraq in 2006 as second-in-command of the Australian Army's security detachment in Baghdad. He found a city in the grip of a rising insurgency. His unit had to contend with missile attacks, suicide bombers and the death by misadventure of one of their own, Private Jake Kovco. Determined to prevent the kinds of bomb attacks that left him scarred, Garth volunteered once more in 2009 - to lead a weapons intelligence team in Afghanistan. He was helicoptered to blast zones in the aftermath of attacks, and worked to identify the insurgent bomb-makers responsible. Revealing, moving, funny and full of drama, Garth Callender's story is one of a kind. Garth Callender left the regular Australian Army in 2013 after a distinguished seventeen-year career, during which he served in Iraq and Afghanistan and rose to the rank of major. He now works for an Australian technology company that is developing new ways to detect concealed explosives. Praise for After the Blast: 'I urge you to read this important, engaging book. Customer Reviews

The author deals in a matter of fact manner with his experiences during two tour of Iraq and one in Afghanistan. His straightforward style, devoid of embellishment, gives the reader a very realistic experience of the challenges of the asymmetric nature of these campaigns. With disarming modesty he describes coping with serious wounds, volunteering to go to Iraq a second time and then his quite different, and one senses, cathartic role in Afghanistan. I read this in one sitting - an absorbing tale and highly recommended.

A very insightful read, I have enormous respect for these brave humans who are prepared to put their lives in danger to protect the rest of us. Well written and easy for a non-Defence mind to understand.

Excellent
